DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

- I. Group 1, claim(s) 1-15, drawn to a method of detection nucleic acids, comprising amplifying the nucleic acid with primers A and C', contacting the amplification product with a probe of sequence D which binds to a sequence B located between sequences A and C, and detecting the formation of a hybrid between the amplification product and the probe.
- II. Group 2, claim(s) 16-19, drawn to a method for detection of nucleic acids comprising amplifying the nucleic acid with two primers, where one of the primers is not specific for the group of organisms to which the detected organism belongs, contacting the amplification product of less than 100 nucleotides with a probe which binds to the amplification product and detecting the hybrid between the amplification product and the probe.
- III. Group 3, claim(s) 20-21, drawn to a method for simultaneous production of amplicates using primers selected such that the amplification products do not do not differ by more than 20% in length and do not exceed 100 nucleotides.
- IV. Group 4, claim(s) 22-23, drawn to a method for detection of HCV using two primers and one probe whose sequences are derived from the HGBV sequence.
- V. Group 5, claim(s) 24-25, drawn to a method of detection nucleic acids, comprising amplifying the nucleic acid with primers, A and C', selected such that the amplification products do not do not differ by more than 20% in length and do not exceed 100 nucleotides.

contacting the amplification products with a probe of sequence D which binds to a sequence B located between sequences A and C, and detecting the formation of a hybrid between the amplification products and the probe.

2. The inventions listed as Groups 1-5 do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: Groups 1-5 are drawn to methods of nucleic acid detection or amplification using different conditions (primers and probes). The special technical feature of Group 1 is detection based on amplification with two primers A and C' and detection with a probe D; the special technical feature of Group II is amplification with two primers one of which is not specific and producing an amplification product of less than 100 nucleotides; the special technical feature of Group III is amplification using primers which result in the final products differing by no more than 20% in length and shorter than 100 nucleotides; the special technical feature of Group 4 is detection of HCV using primers and probes derived from the HGBV sequence, and the special technical feature of Group 5 is detection based on amplification with two primers, A and C', selected such that the amplification products do not do not differ by more than 20% in length and do not exceed 100 nucleotides, and detection with a probe D.
3. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
4. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
